Dear Bob,

Thanks for your note of August 2. It was nice to hear from you.

I would like to come down and speak to the Dallas Council on World Affairs. I have to be in Dallas sometime around the middle of September to meet with a small group of CEOs but I could try to do both, doing the Council at lunch and the other group in the evening or the reverse. It looks as though September 18 would be good for me but I will have get in touch with you to work out specifics. What I'm thinking about is a speech on some substantive subject which would get immediate attention in your Council meeting.

Best regards.

Yours,

William J. Casey

The Honorable William J. Casey
Director of Central Intelligence
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Bill:

I am writing to invite you to visit Dallas this fall for the purpose of presenting an address to the Dallas Council on World Affairs. The Dallas Council is an independent, nonpartisan organization of business and professional leaders in the Dallas area which conducts monthly meetings at which prominent public figures speak. As you can see from the enclosed brochure, former speakers before the Council include Presidents Nixon and Truman, Vice President Bush, and Secretaries Schultz and Kissinger. The Executive Director of the Dallas Council is Major General USA (Ret.) Willard Latham.

The Council would be delighted if you would agree to be our first speaker this coming year, in September (any time after the 14th). However, October or November would be fine if that is more convenient. The format would be a luncheon or dinner meeting sponsored by the Council to which our membership would be invited.

I sincerely hope that you will be able to accept this invitation as I would look forward to seeing you again in Dallas, and I know that you would enjoy addressing the Council and meeting the business and civic leaders of the Dallas community.

With best personal regards,

Bob
